Three Turkeys For Every Table

Three turkeys for every household—that's the story in Virginia this year.

D. U. Livermore, poultry marketing specialist at V. P. I., says the recording-breaking crop of 1,908,000 birds this year places Virginia fifth in the United States in turkey production—and assures plenty of economic eating for everyone.

The 1950 production is more than double the production of ten years ago, and triple that of 20 years ago.

Consumers seem to like the idea of plenty of turkey, Livermore says. Per capita consumption has increased from less than two pounds in 1930 to an expected 4.5 pounds in 1950. Many housewives, Livermore says, are putting turkey on the table the year around—instead of just on special occasions.

The price of turkey this year, the specialist says, will be set by the forces of supply and demand in the market place, in contrast to last year when government price support was in operation.

Plumber Works 17 Years at Hobby To Build Railroad

CRESTON, Iowa — Byron Hiatt has been working on his hobby for 17 years. In that time he has built a real railroad, complete with two locomotives, two freight cars, a mail and baggage car, a passenger car with an observation platform and four trestles.

He operates it for passengers on Sundays and holidays.

The train also has a box car and a caboose. The locomotives are about 8 feet tall at the smokestacks and about 36 feet long, including the coal tender.

Everything is built to scale, the result of Hiatt's handicraft. One of the four trestles on his route is steel reinforced and about 70 feet across. Another spans a gully about 80 feet wide. Hiatt has them numbered so passengers will know they are riding on a railroad line with four trestles.

Hiatt fell in love with railroading when he was a boy. After high school, he went to work for the Burlington railroad. In 1944, he decided to build a miniature train of his own. As a railroad pipe fitter, he had gained much of the "know how" for the job, so he started to work.

At $2 a foot, Hiatt estimates he has invested about $6,400 in roadbed alone, and that's just one of the less costly items. He assembled the locomotives from parts he made or ordered from machine shops. The track was bought from coal mines. The passenger and freight cars were used to advertise the Burlington railroad before Hiatt bought and rebuilt them.

There is a regular roundhouse and train shed arrangement in the center of the area where the train is parked during the week.

Most of the work on the railroad has been done before work in the morning or in the evening.

"I get up at 5 a.m. and work on the railroad about two hours," Hiatt explained. "That way I gain an extra day a week."

Spanish American War Vet Gets Paid After 46 Years

LA CROSSE, Wis.—It took a while, but soldier Richard Klaber finally got paid.

The army veteran received a check for $374.30 to reimburse him for travel and subsistence expenses in getting home to Chicago after he was discharged from the army in Manila, P. I.

Klaber put in 10 claims before congress got around to appropriating the money to take care of his and other similar claims.

Congress acted in 1946, 46 years after Klaber's first claim was filed. Klaber, you see, is 73 years old—a veteran of the Spanish American war.

American Soldiers Retain Right to Listen to Rumors

KOREA—Like in the last war, American soldiers are still holding on to their right to listen to and start rumors. In Korea they have a long list:

All United States troops will soon be withdrawn suddenly from Korea and the air force will drop a number of atom bombs on the Communist forces.

United States troops will not leave Korea but will remain for 25 years after the defeat of the North Koreans.

All North Korean tank crews are either padlocked into their tanks or chained within them.

Other United Nations are sending a total of one million troops to help in the battle against the Korean Reds.

Other United Nations plan to send no troops to Korea.

North Korean troops are being promised one acre of land for every fifty Americans they kill.

North Korean troops are fighting with guns at their backs.

Spanking No Worse Than 'Yakyakking,' Expert Says

LONG BEACH, Calif.—At last one expert does not disapprove of spanking.

Dr. Frank Tallman in a report to the Southern California Society for Mental Hygiene, reports:

"The youngster understands the righteous wrath aroused in the parent because he's felt the same way himself. But despite this understanding no youngster really appreciates a spanking."

Spanking leaves a child "sore in skin and soul" and hostile toward the parent. "Cold, needless spanking" can breed resentment and harm, he said, advocating a firm but not too harsh attitude.

Spanking is no cure-all but neither is it worse than the practice of sparing the rod and "yakyakking and explaining all the time," which can also breed hostility, he said.

Detroit Man Wins Freedom With One Lonely Penny

DETROIT, Mich.— Theodore Gordon won his freedom with a single penny.

When arrested for loitering he denied the charge in court.

"If you haven't got a penny in your pocket, you are loitering," the judge said.

Gordon dug through his pockets and produced one penny.

"Case dismissed," said the judge.
